SWING OF TRANSPORTATION MEN BACK TO WORK BEGINS; END OF TIEUP IS IN SIGHT

Switchmen, Yardmen and Others Resuming in Many Parts of East.

STRONGHOLDS AFFECTED

Pittsburg Passenger Men Vote to Return; Normal Conditions Restored in Philadelphia; Governor Sproul Expresses His Great Gratification.

By Associated Press.

Speedy termination of the transportation tieup wrought by the unauthorized strike of railroad workers throughout the country seemed assured today.

Switchmen, yardmen and other employes of the Pennsylvania, Reading and Baltimore & Ohio lines in the Philadelphia district, one of the eastern strongholds of the state, were returning to work today under orders of their strike leaders.

William J. Tracy, chief of the Pennsylvania state bureau of mediation, who effected the settlement there, said the work order would affect strikers on all lines between Boston and Washington, including those in the New York district, as the Pennsylvania strike committee had been authorized to negotiate for all strikers in the east.

The Philadelphia settlement was affected on the basis of a promise from Pennsylvania and Baltimore & Ohio officials that strikers would be permitted to retain their seniority and would be freed from all discrimination because of their having gone out. Strikers at Baltimore and other eastern strongholds, also were returning today.

In the New York district officials declared the men were returning rapidly. Reports from all sections of the country indicated that the swing back to work was fast gaining momentum. This was reflected both in the increased amount of traffic handled by the lines and the loss of enthusiasm for the strike apparent in the attitude of many of the strikers.

PITTSBURG, April 17—At a special meeting of the Baltimore & Ohio passenger trainmen, at which J. A. Nee, general chairman of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen was present, the men voted to return to work at noon today. Officials said that this action would restore passenger traffic to normal and would affect several hundred men who have been on strike.

CHICAGO, April 17—The railroad strike here will be called off today, it was reported at headquarters of the Chicago Yardmen's association, the "outlaw" organization. A mass meeting of the strikers, at which they will be advised to return to work is to be held this afternoon.

The men will be told, it was reported, that their objective had been obtained, that their wage demands would receive the prompt attention of the new railway labor board and that the new union would continue with or without sanction of the railroads.

CLEVELAND, April 17—Striking Cleveland yardmen today sent to the federal railroad labor board at Washington an offer to return to work at once, even if it was necessary to revise their wage demands, if their new organization were given recognition by the government.

PHILADELPHIA, April 17—Governor Sproul today expressed himself as being happy over the peaceful outcome of the railroad workers' walkout. It was largely due to his efforts that the men returned to work in the East. At the beginning he established his headquarters in Philadelphia, remaining here until late last night when he went to his country home near Chester to nurse a severe cold.

"I am very happy that things worked out so well in Pennsylvania," he said. "Practically all the great railroads pass through our state and my principal thought was to get them running again without debating at this time the labor organization's controversies involved.

"I am proud of the work our Department of Labor and Industry did in getting the men and the railroads together. The railroads had been pushed to one side for a long while. These questions that culminated in the walkout could not be settled under government control for various reasons. The roads have just been returned to the railroad managers with grievances unsettled. With the men back at work they can be discussed in an orderly and proper way.

"I want the country to know that I found not a single radical influence in Pennsylvania."

STRIKE IS PILING UP A TREMENDOUS BILL FOR PUBLIC

Rentals of Roads Being Guaranteed for Six Months the Loss Will Be Added to the $300,000,000 Deficit.

WASHINGTON, April 17—The interruption of transportation, and the consequent reduction in the revenue of the railroads, is piling up a tremendous bill for the American taxpayer to foot in addition to the $300,000,000 deficit resulting from government operation.

With the railroads guaranteed their standard rental for six months from March 1, when they were returned to their owners, all loss resulting from the strike will merely be added to the arrearages due up to March 1.

How deeply the strike is cutting into the daily revenues has not been determined. These ordinarily average about $13,000,000 per day but with the almost complete stoppage of freight traffic and the curtailment in passenger and express service it is believed the daily loss will run from $5,000,000 to $7,000,000, or possibly more per day.

GAS FIELD NEWS

Flow of 2,000,000 Feet in Industrial 2; Brickman Has Some.

A flow of nearly 2,000,000 feet of gas was secured yesterday in the Murrayville sand of the Industrial No. 2 gas well at McKeesport, in which Connellsville men are interested. Drilling has been suspended until the gas can be piped off. The No. 1 well is at a depth of 11,000 feet.

A fair flow of gas was struck yesterday morning in the hundred-foot sand of the Brickman well. The amount of the flow has not been estimated. The McKeesport Gas company well No. 4 on the Grand View extension is down 1,850 feet. The Scottdale-McKeesport is at a depth of 1450 feet. The Serena well came in yesterday with a flow estimated at 10,000,000 feet.

It is claimed this is the largest shipment of washers ever received in the city and without doubt by truck.

Three four-ton trucks were used to haul them.

CHICAGO STRIKE OFFICIALS BLAST SETTLEMENT HOPE

Grand Officers of New Organization Add to Original Demands.

SHENANGO VALLEY IDLE

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 17—Hope for immediate settlement of the rail strike here today apparently was definitely lost at noon when the grand lodge officers, directors and trustees of the "outlaw" union reiterated their original demands and added new ones to the list.

SHARON, April 17—Striking switchmen of the Shenango Valley, meeting late yesterday, decided to remain out. Thousands of men still are idle as a result of the walkout. Every department of the Sharon Steel Hoop plant will be shut down tonight, resulting in 2,000 men being thrown out of employment.

NEGROES ORDERED HELD

Three Are Implicated in Death of Officer Ben Kohut.

Following an inquest conducted yesterday afternoon at the parlors of Funeral Director J. R. Foltz by Coroner S. H. Baum into the death of Ben Kohut, the Baltimore & Ohio railroad detective who was killed as the result of a gun duel on Friday night near Greene Junction, the jury rendered a verdict recommending that John Connors, Jesse Coleman and J. T. Gater, all colored, be held in connection with the murder of Officer Kohut. Coleman and Connors are in the Uniontown jail and Gater in the Cottage State hospital.

Coroner Baum was accompanied here by County Detective John J. Smith, who conducted an investigation into the shooting, Sheriff I. J. Shaw and Martin F. Murphy. Captain R. C. Bledsoe, of the Baltimore & Ohio police force, was one of the principal witnesses. The jury was composed of Alderman Fred Munk, Constable B. Rottler, Rudolph Ralston, John R. Brown, George Francis and David Turner.

The body of James Walker, colored, who was also killed, will be held at the Foltz chapel until Monday or Tuesday, pending the arrival of officers from Baltimore. Walker is believed to have been wanted on a charge of murder in Baltimore.

The body of Officer Kohut was removed to the family residence in Robbins street, where funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, with Rev. J. L. Proudfit, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, officiating. Monday morning the remains will be taken to Braddock on Baltimore & Ohio train 69 for interment in the family burial ground.

Table Lamp Made From Naval Shells.

A novel electric table lamp is displayed in the window of A. B. Kurtz's store. It is the handiwork of Chief Gunner's Mate R. C. VanGorder of the local Naval recruiting station. About the base is a collection of rifle and revolver shells, the whole being highly polished.

STUDENT ACTORS VIE IN ABILITY WITH REGULARS

"O Hara San" Presentation Captivates Capacity High School Audience.

CHORUS WORK SPLENDID

The initial performance of "O Hara San," the Japanese operetta, played by the high school students last night exceeded the expectations of everyone and the consensus of opinion placed it on a level with any of the best home talent shows ever put on here. Participated in by students of all classes, their mastery of the difficult music was a real achievement, and the packed house never knew just what sort of catchy tune would be next. The dramatic parts were carried out well and the big chorus could not have worked better.

E. W. Haviland and Miss Margaret Baker, members of the faculty, coached the students. Mr. Haviland had charge of the musical instruction and Miss Baker conducted the dramatic rehearsals. The labors of both were well rewarded last night. While there was not a great deal of dramatic acting connected with the play, every movement counted. The chorus of 77 voices was perfect. The tones blended wonderfully and the music was sung excellently, especially the opening number of the second act.

The leading part, that of O Hara San, was sung by Miss Thelma Seese. She filled the role exceptionally well. Her clear soprano voice was given wide range by the musical numbers and especially beautiful were the duets sung by her and Ralph Henry, tenor, who played O Kashi Kintara, her lover. The part of O Hara San will be sung tonight by Miss Christine Davis.

Robert Thomas sang the part of Kanaya, the father of O Hara San. Miss Esther Muir was O Toya San, the mother of O Hara San. George Richardson was good in the part of Prince Nashimoto, an aged suitor of O Hara San. Miss Cora Charlesworth gave several solo numbers as O Toku San, chief of the maids in Kanaya's household. Paul Driscoll, a go-between for O Kashi Kantara, sang his part well.

There was but one thing lacking. That was applause on the part of the audience. This was not due to lack of appreciation. It was chiefly because the play ran along so smoothly, one number following another so uninterruptedly that the audience sat as if spellbound.

Every seat in the house was sold and many bought standing room. There were still a number of good seats yet unsold for tonight.

The costumes are especially attractive. They are new and when the chorus appears in the dress of Japs the first hit is scored. Much "making up" is required before the play begins.

Special scenery was necessary for the play. A beautiful background for it was painted by Robert Lyon of this city. The little house of O Hara San was built by A. R. Skomp, manual training instructor, and finished in colors by Lyon.

The chorus was composed of the following:

STRIKING TRAINMEN RESIST EFFORT OF BROTHERHOOD'S CHIEF TO ADJUST TROUBLE

POSTPONE "Y" DRIVE FOR MEMBERS BECAUSE OF RAILROAD STRIKE

Teams Have Been Working Hard But Secure Only 215 Memberships; "Americans" Lead.

The membership campaign of the Baltimore & Ohio Y. M. C. A. which was to have ended on Monday, will be postponed until the railroad men return to work. The teams, meeting at supper in the "Y" last night, determined this action was the best thing to be done under the circumstances as they were missing a number of subscriptions.

The total number of members to date is 215, compared with a goal of 600. The drive would last only today and Monday. The canvassers have put forth much effort in covering the city but have met with little success among the railroaders, principally on account of the strike.

The total report to date gives the "American" leaguers 12 sustaining members, 74 full, 41 regular, and 15 boys, altogether 142. The score credited to Manager Campbell's team is 1,591 points.

The "Nationals," composed of railroaders, have a score of 663 points. Manager Cordrey's workers have signed up 73 members as follows: Sustaining, 2; full, 31, regular, 35; boys, 4.

The drive for sustaining members has been somewhat more successful than for smaller memberships. Last year only three sustaining members were secured. Already 13 have been reported in the present campaign. Among those who are sustaining members are John Hart, Wright-Metzler company, W. N. Leche, Hooper & Long, M. Aaron, A. P. Richards, W. F. Underwood, West Penn Light & Power company, Tri-State Candy company, Kobacker's, A. L. Rose, and Worth Kilpatrick.

Men Continue Firm in Determination to Remain Away From Posts.

RETURNING ELSEWHERE

Passenger Employes in Pittsburg Vote to Resume Duties at Noon Today; Pennsylvania Force at Rainey Yards at Uniontown Reporting.

While striking rail men were reported today to be returning to duty, in other sections of the country all indications here today were that strikers intended to hold out longer. Inquiry at the Baltimore & Ohio offices developed that no men had yet reported to work on this division. Word had been received there this morning, however, that Pittsburg division passenger strikers at Pittsburg, after meeting with James A. Nee, general manager of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen of the Baltimore & Ohio system, had voted to return to work at noon.

Traffic on the local division of the Baltimore & Ohio remained at a standstill. The one yard engine, manned by officials, was the only one moving in the entire yard.

In Uniontown this afternoon it was said eight men returned in a body to the Rainey yards of the Pennsylvania. Men had been reporting at intervals since Wednesday. The Rainey yards are the largest in the Uniontown district.

Freight trains, understood to have been manned by volunteers, went through here on the Pennsylvania railroad yesterday afternoon and evening. The loaded coke cars attracted much attention as they passed over city crossings.

Engineers and firemen employed in the Baltimore & Ohio yards are reporting for work each day and putting in their eight hours, but have no brakemen and conductors to make up the crews. The road enginemen, however, are unable to take their trains out.

A crew made up of railroad officials took 45 cars of coal to the West Penn power plant yesterday. It was impossible for the plant to go much longer without coal as a sufficient supply could not be hauled in trucks.

It was understood freight office employes of the Pennsylvania company would be laid off if the strike continued longer. An inquiry at the office brought the reply that such action was being considered, but nothing definite had yet been determined.

The meeting of railroad strikers, called for yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Colonial theatre, broke up within two minutes after the men gathered there. They met at the call of James A. Nee, general chairman of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen of the Baltimore & Ohio system, and division brotherhood heads.

It was understood the men here might be induced to return to work after listening to Mr. Nee as had the men at Cumberland. A controversy arose, however, when Pittsburg & Lake Erie men from Dickerson Run were barred from the meeting. Learning that the doors were open only to Baltimore & Ohio men the railroaders walked out, adjourning to the Eagle hall where a session open to all strikers was held. A few who remained gathered in a group and listened to Mr. Nee. Some of them expressed themselves as very desirous of returning to work while others held out.

A medicine case the doctor had left in the car was missing. Entrance to the garage had been gained through a front door and the car taken out the rear door.

Steel Production and Requirements

American Metal Market

Again the old question is up in the steel trade, Where is all the steel going?' Production in January exceeded expectations, February showed a large gain over January in the rate of production and now comes the Institute report for March indicating that in March the country was producing steel ingots at the rate of about 40 200,000 tons a year a million ton gain over the February rate In both 1912 and 1913 easily the two best years before the war production was about 30 250 000 tons Thus the March production was at a rate of one half greater than the average rate in the two calendar years before the war when it was obvious that a great deal of steel was being consumed The railroads were laying rails and getting cars and locomotives made and there was a very fair volume of construction of factories hotel and office buildings, bridges and the like

At the present time one does not see that form of steel consumption in any volume yet the steel has been made and shipped It is true there are some fair sized accumulations of steel at mills awaiting shipment, but the accumulations date before March 1st Most mills shipped more steel in March than they produced

There are two ways of considering the matter, by direct observation of consumption and by elimination By elimination one sets the railroads down as taking much less steel than before the war, while to keep up the proportion they should be taking 50 per cent more, and also sets building construction generally as taking much less steel than formerly Then there is the question of stocks. As stated above stocks at mills did not increase during March but rather decreased It is common testimony that no stocks have accumulated in the hands of jobbers or manufacturing consumers Perhaps this testimony is not complete or absolutely accurate but it is the common talk in the trade

By elimination therefore if the process just reviewed is correct in its facts and conclusions, the common everyday consumers of steel are taking enormously increased quantities One can readily see that this is the case with some industries the automobile industry being easily the most conspicuous The conclusion would be that when railroad demand and other demand representing permanent structures attains fair proportions there will be still heavier demand for steel, enough to call for a great deal more than was being produced in March and therefore considerably more than the country can produce

The argument goes very smoothly and yet there will be doubters The steel industry has had remarkable expansion in the past The consumption of 1912 1913 was large from the viewpoint of 1906 The consumption of 1906 was very large from the viewpoint of 1902 and the consumption of 1902 was tremendous compared with the viewpoint of 1898 when steel producers were glad to sell billets at $15 a ton and bars, shapes and plates at about a cent a pound In each of these cases however the consumption could be seen, there being heavy railroad demand and much new construction generally while everyday consumption was having a normal and healthy growth Reference was made above to the increased consumption of the automobile industry as compared with its consumption a few years ago being conspicuous That presents a difficulty rather than an explanation The automobile industry is hardly consuming 10 per cent of the present steel output hence its large proportionate increase goes but a little distance towards explaining the great gain in steel production and shipments and the very fact of this larger consumption being conspicuous raises a doubt as to other consumption If it has increased so greatly, why are there not other and equally conspicuous cases of gains? It is the ultimate and final consumption that counts and perhaps the country at large is gaining in stocks if not of steel then of manufactured goods after all

SWITCHING CARS

In Europe Is a Fascinating Sight for American Observers

Switching cars in European railroad yards is a fascinating sight to the American Red Cross worker abroad who chiefly marvels at the daring disregard the trainmen seem to have for the health and well being of the rolling stock

At one end of some of the French yards two sets of tracks run up and down an inclined plane Up one side a puffing little switch engine pushes two or three unoccupied cars Arriving at the top a parting push is given the engine backs away and down the other side go the cars scurrying dashing to right or left or continuing their mad career straight ahead as switches are thrown before their approach

Often they are minus brakemen and the only reason their wild dash through the yards ever comes to an end is that finally they bring up with a crash on the tail end of the train of which they are to form a part It requires good material to stand this

In some yards horses have supplanted the shifting engine while at Taranto Italy monkeys even go plodding about with a string of cars dragging behind them Such a yard as this has a charming rural aspect more suggestive of the farm than the railroad but it is a yard in which wrecks are virtually unknown

What Is Doing at the Movies.

NAZIMOVA IN "STRONGER THAN DEATH"

THE SOISSON.

"STRONGER THAN DEATH"—With Nazimova in the leading role, is being shown today. "Stronger Than Death," compelling in mystery and the dramatic thrill of the Far East, tells of a famous London dancer, Sigrid Fersen, played by Nazimova, who enters the British colony in a barrack town in India and immediately divides the community into factions—one hating and the other adoring her. She falls in love with an army physician who goes about curing the natives at the height of an epidemic of cholera. To shield the doctor after he has struck down the post commander, Sigrid consents to wed one Barclay, a bounder, who threatens to accuse the physician. But she becomes his wife in name only.

There is an uprising of the natives, incited by Vahana, high priest of the temple, who seeks revenge on the whites for the defilement by one of them of the bride of Vishnu a native girl. As the revolt is nearing its climax, Sigrid goes to dance in the moonlight on the temple steps. The Hindus mistake her for the goddess and tarry to worship—long enough for the British garrison to come to the aid of the imperiled colony. In the melee that follows, Barclay is slain and Sigrid finds her belated happiness with the doctor.

THE SOISSON.

"WIT VS WIT"—In which Marguerite Marsh is seen in the leading role, is being shown today. Miss Marsh grasps the melodramatic atmosphere of the story perfectly and her strong personality gives the picture just what it requires. The setting as a whole, or rather the atmosphere, of the production is one that has wide appeal. The story is entertaining and is helped along by some bright subtitles. Miss Marsh is supported by an all star cast. A selected comedy is also being shown. Clara Kimball Young, the well known screen star, will be seen soon in "Eyes of Youth."

THE PARAMOUNT.

"HIGH SPEED."—The screen version of Clinton H. Stagg's famous automobile racing story of the same title, is being shown today. From the opening of the story to the final fade-out there is action in every minute for the story is laid around the famous automobile races held yearly at Santa Monica, Cal., and Sheepshead Bay, New York, where the actual racing scenes were shot off. During the course of the races is seen a thrilling accident, in which two cars are wrecked. Gladys Hulette and Edward Earle, stars of the picture, are popular throughout the country. "High Speed" is one of the very few motion pictures dealing almost exclusively with automobile races that has ever been shown on the screen. "The Silent Avenger," Vitagraph's million dollar serial, starring William Duncan, is also being shown. The serial draws drama at the very start from the presence of a strong pulsating love theme. The love element leaps from every episode to the very last scene. Every detail of the story could happen tomorrow in any town, and, in fact, has happened in many towns.

THE DAWSON OPERA HOUSE.

"FAIR AND WARMER"—A hilarious farce, with Mae Allison in the leading role, is today's attraction. The absurdities arise from the fact that Billy Bartlett has made a fatal mistake as a husband—he is too good to his wife, Laura. Hence her flirtation. Hence, when Blanny, the adorable little wife of Jack Wheeler, finds herself presumably as neglected by her mate as Billy is by Laura, the two confide their sorrows; and when they mix the famous cocktail (neither ever tried one before) the expected unexpected happens. And although the events which ensue are perhaps the most ludicrous ever conceived by any writer for the stage, "Fair and Warmer" persists in being human and true to life.

Why a miner should not wear a leather shoe at work

LEATHER isn't water-tight. That means cold, wet feet, often long hours of it. It sometimes means catching cold and getting sick.

Leather wears out quickly when it's water-soaked. That means you're wasting your money when you wear a pair of leather shoes at work.

A rubber shoe; as comfortable as leather, yet absolutely water-tight—that's the U.S. Bootee. Get a pair of them before you start work tomorrow.

Every pair of U. S. Bootees is backed up with extra thicknesses of pure rubber and good strong fabric where the wear is hardest, at just those places where rubber shoes are likely to leak first.

And they've got real comfort built in—made with plenty of room at the toes, and shaped so as not to rub up and down at the heel.

Go to the store and see for yourself the wonderful U. S. Bootee, made for miners—the high with six eyelets, the low with four.

Ask for U. S. Rubber footwear—it means solid wear and long service for your money.

"U.S." Bootee—comes in two heights, 6 eyelets and 4 eyelets, all sizes, white, red and black

FOR FARMERS, TOO

Built especially to stand up under hard use in mines—the hardest possible kind of wear—the U.S. Bootee and the U.S. Boot are now being adopted by farmers everywhere who know the value of sturdy, comfortable rubber footwear.

SATURDAY EVE'G, APRIL 17, 1920.

NOT TO LACK PROGRESSIVENESS.

Connellsville has again demonstrated its progressiveness and up-to-dateness. This time the women of the city have taken the forward step in the organization of a branch of the League of Women Citizens.

Having a substantial reason for its existence the league cannot be regarded as a fad. The soon-to-be enfranchisement of women has created a need for an organization which will systematically serve as a means of educating women in the duties that will presently devolve upon them. Such is primarily the object of the league. Through the agency of citizenship schools the members will be taught how to conduct an election and instructed in the election laws and the duties and rights of voters. This will, however, form but one of the activities of the organization. A study will be made of prospective legislation designed to safeguard the ballot from those influences which, in the past, have been prejudical to the best interests of the community, state and nation. Other matters to occupy the attention of the league will include plans to bring about an increase in the salaries of teachers and to secure the representation of women upon the school boards. Social hygiene, food supply, protection of women and children in industry and child welfare are also embraced in the program.

On the whole the work outlined by the league constitutes a rather ambitious undertaking. But the intention to acquire an understanding and familiarity with the subjects mentioned indicates that the women comprising the league are fully alive to the responsibilities that will presently rest upon them, as well as being appreciative of the opportunities they will have to share with the men in meeting the problems every community must meet or be accounted as lacking in progressiveness. The women of Connellsville have given proof that we are not to be deficient in this important particular.

NEW TESTS FOR TROUT FISHERMEN.

Trout fishermen will have some new and very fine points to determine as they ply their favorite pastime this season. Under the new law the day's catch is to be limited to 25 trout, the restrictions as to length having been removed. Thus if a trout under four inches is landed the fisherman is freed of the liability he would formerly have assumed by declining to return his catch to the stream. But there will still remain the duty of deciding whether, as a true sportsman, he should assist in the conservation of the supply for later seasons by returning the baby trout to their element.

This point will be the true test of the sportsman spirit inasmuch as a strict interpretation of the law would require that the trout discarded must be included in the count of the day's catch. Again, the 1920 fisherman will be faced with the temptation to return the smaller trout to the stream with the hope and expectation of catching a larger one the next cast. If doing so will swell the catch beyond 25, the law will be violated.

Altogether the season promises to give the sport a new zest while applying new tests to the followers of Izaak Walton.

CHEERING DISPIRITED UNIONTOWN.

In the distress the Uniontown papers are suffering over the failure of the census figures to come up to advance notices, they are not without some consolation. This is offered by our considerate and thoughtful contemporary, the Latrobe Bulletin. Although disappointed that Latrobe's official count of noses is somewhat short of 10,000, the figure it was hoped to be reached, the Bulletin is accepting the situation with such good grace that it has the spirit of neighborliness to say a word to calm our much troubled contemporaries at the County Capital. Here is the Bulletin's message of hope and good cheer to the disconsolate dwellers in the Second City of Fayette:

The might of coke!

A few years ago when J. V. Thompson whose name almost was synonomous with the name of Uniontown, stretched his string too far, there probably were some who figured that Uniontown would be a long time recovering from the financial blow which it received when J. V. went under.

But the census figures for the Fayette county seat, announced yesterday afternoon, gave Uniontown a population of 15,509—or an increase of 17 per cent over the 1910 count.

That's a healthy increase—an increase greater by 1.5 per cent than that enjoyed by the borough of Greensburg during the same period of time.

It's demonstrative of the might of coke.

Coal and coke are the principal industries of the Uniontown section.

The war brought on a tremendous demand for coal and coke. That demand put Uniontown on her feet—on both feet. It made men rich, it made Uniontown a center of thriving merchandising. It made Uniontown grow.

The chances are that five years ago there were not a great many men who would have been willing to wager very much that 1920 would find Uniontown with a population seventeen per cent larger than was its population of ten years ago.

Germany verges toward the verge for about the steenth time.

A million a day for vacation and not a cent for the rainy day seems to be the order in the coke region.

As long as gasoline for the trucks holds out to burn the hungriest citizen may hope to keep out of the bread line.

There is no embargo on church attendance tomorrow and little danger of congestion of pews.

The membership of the League of Women Citizens being limited to the fair sex it may be presumed to say of it, "The better half of a league, onward!"

The "break" and "no break" news from the strike zones vividly recalls some of the "defeat" and "victory" bulletins sent out from the war zones between 1914 and 1918.

If the members of the "overall" clubs will now give a correct imitation of wearers of these garments at work in useful production it will do more to adjust the price level to reasonable limits than merely posing in the new style garb.

DIVORCE GAINS 326 PER CENT IN TEN YEARS

Remarkable Fact Revealed in Westmoreland County By Study of Record.

LAX LAWS ARE BLAMED

Married Couples Tire of Each Other and Mutually Agree to Severance of Relations Through Medium of the Court; Figures for a Decade.

Special to The Courier.

GREENSBURG, April 17.—Divorce, in Westmoreland county, has increased 326 per cent in the last 10 years, says an article in the "Morning Review" by Katharine M. Friedel.

Whereas, the filing of 30 libels in divorce at a single term of court was considered an immense number in other days, more than twice that number have been filed at each of the last three terms of court. For the entire year of 1909 but 61 libels were filed.

That same number was filed in August, 1919, term alone. Divorce actions reached the maximum point at the November, 1919, term, when 75 were filed.

Judge Alexander D. McConnell, president judge of the Westmoreland county courts, who is serving his third term on the bench, is not inclined to blame the amazing increase of divorce on the fact that under the law of the state, divorce may be sought on any one of three grounds, but that the Acts of Assembly make the procedure too easy.

"I think divorces in our state are almost too easy to obtain," declared Judge McConnell.

Asked to give his reason for the tremendous growth of divorce in the county, Attorney Philip K. Shaner, who handles a large percentage of the divorce business of the local courts, replied without a moment's hesitation: "It's due to the laxity of the laws more than anything else."

"Couples get tired of each other and decide in an amiable way to get a divorce," declared the attorney. "They often have it all fixed up between them before they even consult a lawyer."

Statistics compiled from Westmoreland county records show that divorces totaled 1,143 during the past 10 years. Even so late as five years past, the courts were trundling along with but 93 as the total of divorce decrees granted during an entire year, 1915. The total for 1909 was 61 cases; for 1910, owing to a confusion of records, only approximate figures are obtainable, but the total for three of the four terms of court show 67 cases; in 1911, 69 decrees were granted; in 1912, 93; in 1913, 91; in 1914, 130; in 1915, divorce received a slight set back and but 93 decrees were granted.

That divorce steadily gained momentum is evidenced by the total for 1916, 133 cases. A comparison of totals for the individual terms is of interest. February, 1916, had 21 decrees; May, 21; August, 42, and November, 41. The year 1917 showed a larger total, 153, divided as follows: February, 42; May, 44; August, 38, and November, 29. A total of 140 cases was noted in 1918, as follows: February, 33; May, 45; August, 39, and November, 23. The February term of 1920 opened with 64 cases and the yearly total will probably be in the neighborhood of 240 cases.

CONDUCTOR KILLED

Engineer Is Injured When Two Are Struck in Steam Cloud.

By Associated Press.

PITTSBURG, April 17.—D. C. Jones, conductor, was killed and Alexander Dunmire, engineer, was injured in the East Pittsburg yards of the Pennsylvania railroad today.

The men, part of the crew of the Manhattan Limited, had alighted from the train to investigate trouble which the engine had developed and were standing on the eastbound track. Steam from the disabled engine enveloped them and they were struck by a fast passenger train going east.

Just Folks

Edgar A. Guest.

SPRING FEVER.

The simplest tasks seemed hard to do,
I dragged my way about the place,
I felt all right, and yet I knew
I feared the work I had to face;
The children seemed to worry me,
And that's a sign that something's wrong.
I thought of dreadful things to be—
And then I heard a robin's song.

I scolded over little things
And stopped the youngsters at their play,
It seemed my nerves were jumping springs,
For I was finding fault all day;
My hands would not obey my will,
I had no relish for my food,
I'd lost my cunning and my skill,
And I was in a bitter mood.

Then green appeared upon the trees
And robins broke the day with song,
And from the south there came a breeze
Which brought the scent of flowers along;
I turned my back upon it all,
Dropped every task and stole away,
And went where neither door nor wall
Make prisoners of human clay.

I watched the white clouds drifting by
And heard the chirruping of birds,
Found pictures to delight the eye
And heard no sound of selfish words;
I spent a day with trees that know
Far more than man has ever learned,
And I could bear my bit of woe
And smile once more, when I returned.

TOMORROW HUMANE SUNDAY; CHURCHES' SUPPORT IS SOUGHT

Day Brings to Close Week For Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

SERVICES FOR THE DAY

Tomorrow, according to the program of the American Humane association, is to be observed throughout the United States as "Humane Sunday" bringing to a close 'Be Kind to Animals Week a movement fostered by the association.

One of the requests of the association is that the ministers of all denominations call attention to the movement which has for its object not only prevention of cruelty in all forms to dumb animals but protection of children who may lack parental care or who do not live under the best of conditions at home

While the association endorses the prosecution of persons guilty of cruelty to animals and to children its purpose in the campaign that has been waged this week which is one of publicity is to educate the public to the lack of attention helpless animals are often subjected to— n Connellsville and everywhere To this end the aid of the ministers is sought and the association asks that they call attention to the day and invite the application of the golden rule to treatment of the lower animals

LAXATIVE for Aged People

THE BANE of old age is constipation. The bowels become weak and unable to perform their functions without aid. For this purpose only the mildest and gentlest laxative should be used. The use of harsh cathartics aggravates the trouble and makes the constipation worse. Chamberlain's Tablets are a favorite with people of middle age and older on account of their gentle action.

CHRIS WAGNER ONCE A LEADER IN SPORTS IN LOCAL REGION

Local Movie Manager Given Credit For Starting Jack Quinn.

SOME PLAYER HIMSELF

Though this city has been on the wane in sporting activities for a number of years there is bound to be a reaction. Some of the old time athletes who make this city their home are doing all they can to revive sports, especially baseball. Among this number is Chris Wagner, one of the best-known business men in this section of the state. Everyone knows Chris and that he operates the Soisson and Paramount theatres, but how many know that Chris was one of the best baseball players and cycle racers that ever participated in these sports? An instance that happened to Chris during his athletic days is well worth recounting.

Chris was a member of the Dunbar baseball club, about 15 years ago. (Now don't try to figure his age) and he was a rattling good player. This day, July 4, the team had to play a double-header, one game in the morning and one in the afternoon. On the same day there was to be a bicycle road race. The distance was 12 miles. Chris was due to go on the ball field when the promoters of the race figured it out that the prizes would surely go to outsiders unless they could get Chris to enter. Alex Duncan, now burgess of Dunbar, was also a racer. He coaxed Chris to enter and loaned him his racing suit. They hustled him out of his baseball suit, into a riding outfit and onto a wheel. The shoes he borrowed from Clyde Abrams, now a major in the army. The prize was a handsome gold watch for the winner. Did Wagner win? Ask him the time.

Wagner was more prominent in racing circles in Pittsburg. There he raced against such stars as Lester Wilson, Louis Grimm and others. Grimm won the famous six-day race in New York City afterwards. Wilson was also a competitor in those races.

In baseball, Chris was the manager of the Dunbar club, and was the man that started Jack Quinn in the game. One day Dunbar was playing Lemont and Chris' battery was Jim Welsh and Joe Sherring. Welsh was being batted all over the lot. In despair someone told Chris to put in "that kid" Quinn, knowing it could not be much worse. They got Quinn, who had beaten his way in, and Jack was sent on the mound. Defeat was turned into victory by Quinn's pitching and Dunbar won the game. Quinn's baseball record is known to all fans, but of his start in the game the credit goes to Wagner.

This is the kind of men that are trying to put baseball back on the map in this city. Are you going to give them a helping hand to start the Connellsville Independents off on the right track?

HER BOY HAD ALWAYS BEEN WEAK AND PUNY

Now He Eats Everything in Sight and Romps With Playmates.

"My four year old boy had been weak and puny since birth, and had constipation and indigestion. Nothing did him any good, until we tried Milks Emulsion. Since using it, he can't get enough to eat and has outgrown his childhood trouble. He plays out with the children now, and he was never able to do that before."—Wm. Heart, 424 Bundy Ave., New Castle, Ind.

Weak, ailing children usually start eating and getting stronger from the very first bottle of Milks Emulsion. Most children like to take it, because it really tastes good. A trial costs nothing.

Milks Emulsion is a pleasant, nutritive food and a corrective medicine. It restores healthy, natural bowel action, doing away with all need of pills and physic. It promotes appetite and quickly puts the digestive organs in shape to assimilate food. As a builder of flesh and strength Milks Emulsion is strongly recommended to those whom sickness has weakened, and is a powerful aid in resisting and repairing the effects of wasting diseases. Chronic stomach trouble and constipation are promptly relieved—usually in one day.

This is the only solid emulsion made, and so palatable that it is eaten with a spoon like ice cream. Truly wonderful for weak, sickly children.

No matter how severe your case, you are urged to try Milks Emulsion under this guarantee—Take six bottles home with you, use it according to directions and if not satisfied with the results, your money will be promptly refunded. Price 60c and $1.20 per bottle. The Milks Emulsion Co., Terre Haute, Ind. Sold by druggists everywhere.—Adv.

OF "SHOCK" VARIETY

Nothing Like American "Rye" Before Received in Scotland Town.

By Associated Press.

GREENOCK, Scotland, April 16.—American rye whiskey now being imported into this country is said to be the "shock" variety by the chief constable here who has filed a report on the subject. The effect of pre-war whisky, even when it has not been bonded for three years before being sold at retail, was nothing in character to that of some of the present day liquor, which only recently made its appearance there.

The House of Whispers

By WILLIAM JOHNSTON

My counsel's unexpected question came as a thunderbolt to the opposition. The whole courtroom seemed to sense that something crucial was about to be brought out. The jurors to a man leaned forward to listen for her answer. The district attorney, plainly puzzled, half rose in his seat and then subsided. Wick's face went white, and the girl herself started and her eyes turned helplessly to Wick, as if seeking instructions as to how to answer.

"Is that your real name?" McGregor repeated, this time a little more emphatically.

"It is—that is—it was," she stammered.

"It was your name," said McGregor sarcastically, "and what might be your name now?"

"My name," the girl hesitated, as if struggling with herself, and then casting a defiant look in Wick's direction, she answered with pride rather than with boldness, "my name is Mrs. Edward Moore."

"The wife of Lefty Moore, the burglar in Sing Sing, you mean, do you not?" sneered McGregor.

"I am," she replied with a proud lifting of her chin and a flash in her eye. "I'm Lefty Moore's wife, and I'm proud that I am—his lawfully wedded wife and I don't care who knows it. I love Lefty Moore."

There was instant consternation in the district attorney's camp. With visions of discredited testimony confronting him, he was on his feet roaring objections. Throughout the whole courtroom there was a similar stir, and the judge began rapping for order.

Close behind my counsel my mother had been sitting, accompanied by some woman wearing a heavy veil. I had paid little attention to her hitherto, supposing that it was some hotel maid whom my mother had hired to accompany her to court, for so far as I knew my mother had no women acquaintances in New York. This woman now, to my amazement, reached forward and plucked McGregor by the sleeve. As she pushed back her veil to whisper to him, to my utter surprise and consternation I saw that it was Barbara Bradford.

How had Barbara come to be sitting here in court at my mother's side? Delighted as I was at seeing her, I was puzzled and perplexed. I had sternly forbidden both Gorman and McGregor from making any plans to call her as a witness. I had urged her to keep silent and not become involved in any way in the case. My eyes sought hers for an explanation, but after that one whispered word, that I was unable to hear, she had quickly drawn her veil over her face.

"Your honor," said McGregor, rising, "in view of this unexpected testimony, I should like to request a recess."

"Granted," said the judge. "Adjourned until two o'clock."

CHAPTER XIV.

Impatiently I waited for the recess to be over. I could not understand what was happening. Neither Gorman nor my counsel came near me. Even my mother made no attempt, so far as I could learn, to see me. The one glimpse I had had of Barbara there in the courtroom had fired me again with wild desires to see her. My feelings were equally divided between hoping she would and hoping she would not make any effort to reach me—at least not until my trial was over.

That something was happening to keep them all away—something perhaps vital to my freedom—I was certain. On no other ground could I explain the fact of none of them seeking me for consultation. Yet what it might be I could not possibly conjecture. Eagerly I hurried into the courtroom again as soon as the recess was over, at once turning my eyes to see if the girl I loved was there.

Quickly I located her still sitting beside my mother. Her veil now was boldly thrown back, and as she gazed at me with sparkling eyes and a confident smile, I felt sure that across the distance she was trying to send some message of good tidings. My mother's face, too, I observed, now wore a happier look, and about Gorman and McGregor both was an air of greater confidence than either had manifested before.

What had happened? What had they found out? Eagerly I waited developments.

The tale, the girl was recalled to the stand and her cross-examination resumed.

"Mrs. Moore," began McGregor—and I observed curiously that his voice in addressing her no longer was harsh and sarcastic but merely suave and impelling—"you have testified here as a witness against Mr Spalding Nelson, accused of having murdered Daisy Lutan, have you not?"

"I have," she answered, looking at him steadily in the eye, but speaking with a slight tremor in her tones. I wondered to what it might be due. Was it because she feared the consequences of the revelation as to her identity, or was it that she feared she might be trapped by his questions?

"Now tell me, Mrs Moore," he shot at her explosively, "who really murdered Daisy Lutan?"

"Henry Kent," she answered quickly, before the district attorney had time to stop her.

"What's this?" exclaimed the judge. "What did you say?"

"Object! object!" vociferated the district attorney, striving in vain to catch the attention of the judge presiding. McGregor, apparently well satisfied with the results of his question, stood there, smiling assurance at me.

"Young woman," directed the judge, "will you kindly repeat your last statement—louder. Who did you say killed Daisy Lutan?"

The girl turned to face the judge. Her lips were set as if she had determined to carry out some fixed plan, cost what it might.

"Daisy Lutan," she repeated, "was murdered by Henry Kent, who owns the Granddeck. He's really Orville Granders, the bank president who got away with eight hundred thousand dollars and was sent up for seventeen years."

There was a commotion in the rear of the courtroom. A dapper little old gentleman with neatly trimmed white whiskers rose hastily and made a dash for the door. Gorman, who had been sitting behind him, sprang after him and pinioned him by the arms:

"Nothing doing, Granders. I've got you."

Wick, sitting up near the counsel table, at the same time showed evidence that he, too, was contemplating hasty flight, but a husky chap whom I suspected of being one of Gorman's aides seized him, too.

"Your honor," cried my counsel, "I demand the issuance of warrants at once for Orville Granders, alias Henry Kent, and his confederate, James Wilson, alias James Wick and 'Stuffy Jim,' on the charge of having murdered Daisy Lutan and Rufus Gaston. I further urge the immediate release of my client, Mr. Spalding Nelson, in my custody. Testimony that we already have obtained will establish that he was an innocent victim of the dastardly plots of these two ex-crooks."

The reaction that came from this sudden clearing of my name left me in a puzzled daze from which I hardly recovered until late that evening, when once more free, I found myself in the Gaston apartment. Granders, his tool, Wick and practically every employee of the Granddeck were under arrest, and warrants were out for other members of the band whose identity had been revealed by the former telephone girl.

And there in the apartment with me were my mother, Gorman, McGregor—and to my surprise and delight, Barbara Bradford. After her sister's wedding, it appeared, Barbara's mother had gone away for a brief rest, leaving her alone in the apartment with the servants. She had welcomed the opportunity to work undisturbed on the mystery that had landed me behind the bars. Thinking that at Rufus Gaston's funeral she might pick up some clue that would be of service in unraveling the tangled skein that held her and me together, she had gone thither, and seeing my mother there, and suspecting at once who she might be, had introduced herself. Quickly they had become good friends and she it was who had informed my mother of my plight.

Present also with us, despite the lateness of the hour, was the district attorney and two of his aides, and Nellie Kelly, or as she much preferred to be called, Mrs. Moore. The girl was technically a prisoner, but her services in bringing the real criminals to book had been so exceptional that she had been released on her own recognizance. Hither she had been brought that the district attorney might check up with her the marvelous tale of criminal conspiracy that she had unfolded to my counsel in the brief recess of the court that day.

Orville Granders, it appeared, had been the master-mind that had directed all the plotting. A score of years before he had been president of one of the metropolis' biggest banks. He had been discovered to have embezzled nearly a million dollars. He had been tried and sentenced to seventeen years' imprisonment, but no one ever had been able to find what he had done with the money, so safely had he hidden it away.

MAKING BONNETS FOR LASSIES ◇ A "TRY-ON" IN THE ONE-STYLE BONNET SHOP

HERE is a millinery shop in New York which guarantees its hats never to go out of style.

With every purchase goes the understanding that in five or ten years from now the bonnet bought today will be just as attractive, just as much admired and even more in vogue.

It is the Salvation Army "Millinery Shop" located at 120 West Fourteenth Street, New York City, in which establishment every bonnet which enters the tenement houses, rescue homes, orphanage, nursery or slum settlement first sees the light of day. And the shop does a rushing business. Three hundred bonnets each week are trimmed, boxed, sent out to all parts of the country and started on their mission of spreading cheer and hope to every corner of the United States.

And the Salvation Army is an importer—not the type that sticks the coveted word after its name as a matter of course—but a real one. Every bonnet that graces the head of every Salvation Army lassie came all the way from across the Atlantic for that purpose. The bonnet itself is English, the trimmings are American, and the wearers embrace every nationality in the world.

Many times each week big trucks draw up to the door of the shop and deposit their cargoes of untrimmed hats. At frequent intervals the piquant bonnets with their long blue streamers, blue ruching and satin folds leave the establishment bound for years of service in the slums and bleak spots of the nation. The familiar blue bonnet, shaped like nothing else under the sun, is a symbol of unselfish service wherever poverty, sickness or distress exists the whole world over.

Could Not Begin to Tell All.

"I could not tell you all the benefits I had from the use of Foley's Honey and Tar," writes Miss Rose Florke, 209 Hawkins Ave., N. Braddock, Pa. "I had a cold in my chest and fearing it would cause pneumonia I tried Foley's Honey and Tar and it was not long till I felt relieved. I hope others suffering from severe colds will try it." Many such letters have been written about this time-tried, reliable family medicine for coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough. Sold everywhere.—Adv.

Took a Severe Cold.

"Our five year old son Paul took a severe cold last winter that settled on his lungs and he had terrible coughing spells. We were getting worried about him as the medicine we gave him did not help him in the least. A neighbor spoke so highly of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy that I got a bottle of it, and the first dose benefited him so much that I continued giving it to him until he was cured," writes Mrs. Frank Crocker, Pana, Ill.—Adv.

URGES PEOPLE TO FIGHT CATARRH WITH SIMPLE HOME MADE REMEDY

Can Make Pint at Home and Costs Little, Says Leading Druggist of Covington, Ky., Who Has Made Special Study of Catarrh.

Says: Inflamed Nostrils Invite Influenza

People who say that catarrh is a disease not to be taken seriously are harshly rebuked by a Kentucky druggist who has for years been much interested in the growth of this loathsome, yet altogether too common disease.

He claims that the sore, tender, inflamed membrane of the nostrils and throat is a prolific breeding ground for germs—not only the germs of Influenza, but many other kinds as well.

If people would only stop experimenting for two weeks and try a simple remedy made of Mentholized Arcine mixed with enough boiled water to make a full pint, half of the catarrh in this country would be abolished.

It's really no joke for people who don't know about this simple recipe to be constantly sniffing and snuffing, blowing and hawking, when all these obnoxious symptoms as well as the foul discharge can be made to disappear in a few days.

Ask for three-quarters of an ounce of Mentholized Arcine—that's all you need and after you have mixed it with enough boiled water to make a pint, gargle the throat twice daily and snuff or spray some up the nostrils, as directed.

The tender nostrils will soon lose their soreness, heal up, and be clean and healthy.

Important Reminder: Just as soon as anyone in the family gets a cold in the head, check it at once with this same medicine.

The Building Proposition

The rule for renting properties has always been one dollar per month rent for every one hundred dollars invested. Have you ever considered Mr. Renter, that the same rent money on any home, let it be large or small, will pay for the same home in ten years?

EXAMPLE—If a house cost $2,000.00 and rents for $20.00 per month for ten years or 120 months, the result is $2,200.00, the cost of house and $200.00 for tax and repairs. You can easily do it. Try our payment plan.

FAINTING AND DIZZY SPELLS

The Cause of such Symptoms and Remedy Told in This Letter.

Syracuse, N. Y.—"When I commenced the Change of Life I was poorly, had no appetite and had fainting spells. I suffered for two or three years before I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and the Liver Pills which I saw advertised in the papers and in your little books. I took about twelve bottles of your Vegetable Compound and found it a wonderful remedy. I commenced to pick up at once and my suffering was relieved. I have told others about your medicine and know of some who have taken it. I am glad to help others all I can."—Mrs. R. E. Deming, 437 W. Lafayette Ave., Syracuse, N. Y.

While Change of Life is a most critical period of a woman's existence, the annoying symptoms which accompany it may be controlled, and normal health restored by the timely use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Moreover, this reliable remedy contains no narcotics or harmful drugs and owes its efficiency to the medicinal extractives of the native roots and herbs which it contains.

Add Ten Hours of Leisure to Your Week

Time, a wise man said, is something that can neither be added to nor subtracted from.

Yet we can add ten hours of leisure to your week with our Family Laundry Service. This is not the usual laundry service—it is, rather, a special service that we have developed to meet your special washday needs.

We take your entire washing. We cleanse everything—all without rubbing. By our method soft water and fluffy suds bubble through your clothing much in the same way as they do when you souse and rinse your daintier things in a wash bowl. Then we dry them, without wringing, in warm pure air, imparting to them the much desired freshness.

All the flat pieces, like bed linen, tablecloths, pillowslips and napkins, we iron beautifully—you will enjoy displaying them to your guests.

The children's dresses, your own skirts and shirtwaists, and such other things as need it, we starch, ready for you to iron.

But the amount of ironing we leave for you is slight, for our drying process is such that many things, like undergarments, can be worn immediately, without ironing.

Then we deliver your package—invitingly clean—deliver it to you at a definite time each week. In short, we do ten hours of the work of washday for you—we give you ten hours leisure for less laborious things.

Let us acquaint you better with this service. The cost of this modern laundry service is slight. Telephone and we will have our driver call for your family bundle.
